Sponsored by LightStep

LightStep delivers confidence at scale for those who develop, operate, and rely upon today’s powerful software applications; and this confidence amplifies and accelerates software’s positive impact on our lives. Answer questions and diagnoses 100% of anomalies, spanning mobile, monoliths, and microservices across every service in real time.

Show Notes

In your talk "Graal: Not just a new JIT for the JVM" - what’s the TL;DR?
Mobilizing your Java EE applications may seem like a daunting task:

- The requirements to support BYOD devices are inevitable.
- Adopting a native development strategy would require your team to learn a whole set of skills that span a wide range of devices and platforms.
- A web-based approach may align better with your legacy systems, but will it be able to deliver the expected mobile user experience? Moreover, can mobile browser implementations support all the features that users will demand?

ICEMobile's comprehensive suite of universal mobile web controls enables you to augment your existing Java EE web applications with mobile interfaces. Its device detection, adaptive rendering, and automated theming produce device-optimized markup that deliver a true mobile user experience to a wide range of devices, using pure web-based techniques.
